

Col. Harry Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Brown, 73, Dies Sunday Charleston, Killed in Collision

Col. Harry E. Dudley, 73, 206 Dorothy, died at 5:45 a.m. Sunday of heart disease in the Bowld hospital in Memphis.

Dudley had been transferred from Missouri Delta Community hospital about four days prior to his death. He had been in and out of hospitals ever since June.

Dudley was an active sportsman, city councilman and mayor, military leader and highway department employee.

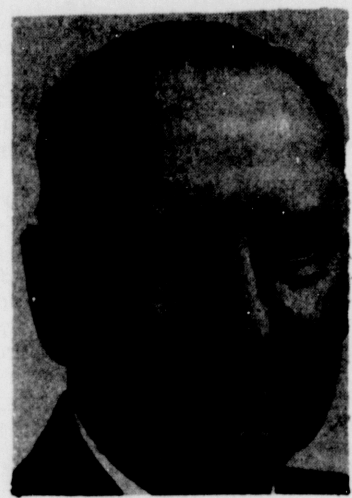

He was an inspiration to several young men in the area and helped three boys through college who were not related to him or his wife.

Masonic services will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Welsh Funeral Home. Funeral rites will be at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the First Methodist church with the Rev. Joseph Wagner officiating. Burial will follow at the City cemetery. An honor guard will be on hand and military rites will be performed at the graveside.

Surviving are his wife the former Mary Jane Thomas; one daughter Helen Vera White, Montross, Va.; a son William L. Dudley, Williamstown, Mass.; two brothers, Charles E. Dudley, Webster Groves; and Robert G. Dudley, St. Charles; and two sisters, Miss Florence Dudley and Mrs. L. E. Belding, both of St. Charles, and seven grandchildren.

He was born July 27, 1894, on King's Ranch, Driscoll, Tex.

"Dud", a nickname acquired by an abomination of his last name, was educated in public schools in St. Charles. He attended the St. Charles Military Academy and Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, where he was captain of the 1917 football team. He won letters in basketball, football and baseball at the college. He volunteered in the U.S. Marines in June, 1917, and served as a drill sergeant in Paris Island, S.C. He was honorably discharged in February, 1918. He then taught for a year at Augusta Military Academy at Fort Defiance, Va.

Dudley played semi-professional and professional baseball in Mississippi and with the New Orleans farm team of the Cleveland Indians after the first World War.

Dudley also played on championship amateur teams in Sikeston and Cape Girardeau. He met his wife in 1915, while playing on an amateur league team in Sikeston and attending college in Cape Girardeau. They were married May 6, 1920, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Thomas in Sikeston.

They spent the summer of 1920 on honeymoon in New Orleans, La., where he played shortstop for the Cleveland Indians farm team.

He and his wife returned to Sikeston after the summer. The Amish School Case Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the objection of three justices, the Supreme Court turned down today an Amish farmer's claim that Kansas' compulsory school attendance violates constitutional religious freedom. The court said in a brief ruling that the appeal, filed for LeRoy Garber of Yoder, Kan., by the American Civil Liberties Union, had been dismissed "for want of jurisdiction." No other explanation was given. The action left standing a ruling by the Kansas Supreme Court last Nov. 5 that the law is constitutional. Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices William O. Douglas and Abe Fortas dissented, saying the high court should have taken the case.

first business enterprise he entered was a partnership with Ed Hollingsworth in "Dudley's Confectionary."

He began working for the Missouri Highway Department District 10 office in Sikeston in 1934. He served as weight officer for the department from 1934-38, as safety officer from 1938-40. Then took a military leave in 1941-46. Returned in 1946, and served as right of way agent. He was promoted to District right of way agent in 1954, and served in that capacity till 1959, when he retired. He received a citation from the Highway Department for 25 years of service.

Dudley refereed football games for 23 years in Southeast Missouri beginning in the 1920's. He helped establish the American Legion baseball team and the first teams Little League baseball teams in both leagues.

He was a school board member from 1929-41. Dudley was active in scouting and served as a past member of the SMO Area Council of Boy Scouts. He was a scout commissioner from 1931-32.

He was an active member of the American Legion since it was organized and is a past adjutant of the Henry Mel drum post in Sikeston. In 1962, he was a child welfare chairman of the American Legion.

Of all his activities, he was probably proudest of his military career.

He entered Company K, Missouri National Guard in July, 1920 as a first lieutenant. Subsequently, he was promoted to captain, major, lieutenant colonel and colonel in 1939. He was then made commander of the 140th Infantry Regiment.

Col. Dudley re-entered active military service Dec. 23, 1940, and served six years. During his second tour of duty he served as commander of a prisoner camp for captured German officers in Crossville, Tenn., in 1943. From 1945-46, he was commander of all prisoner camps in the southern states. For his service he received the Army Commendation Medal.

He also received the Missouri Distinguished Service Medal for meritorious service in ceremonies at Camp Riley, Minn., in 1960. He retired from the military in 1955.

He was active member of the city council since 1960. He served as mayor from 1960-65, and was a devoted civic leader. In July, 1966, he was named the Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year.

In 1962, he received the distinguished service award given by the Sikeston Kiwanis Club and was made an honorary member of the club in 1965.

He was active in civil defense work and a member of the Masonic Lodge. He was a member of the First Methodist Church in Sikeston.

Woman Killed by Bow and Arrows

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A mother of two children was killed today with bow and arrows. Police arrested the husband, quoting him as saying he tried, and failed, to strangle his 3-year-old son.

Mrs. Annabella Bookur, 26, was found dead by police in her West Philadelphia bedroom, five arrows sticking out of her body.

Capt. Edmund J. Zongolowicz of the homicide squad said Vaughan Booker, an expert archer who is an unemployed salesman, shot his wife three times in the neck and twice in the left side. The weapon was a 6-foot bow and 26-inch arrows.

The captain said Booker told him the slaying ended a series of domestic quarrels over the weekend, the final one just before dawn.

Zongolowicz said that after the slaying, Booker walked around the corner to his parents' home, where he borrowed a dime to telephone police.

Shepherd of Hills

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) — The Old Mill Theater closed down Saturday night after presenting its 108th performance this season of its Shepherd of the Hills play.

The Shepherd of the Hills Historical Society, which produced the play, said attendance was up about 40 per cent and it was the longest season of any of the country's 23 outdoor theaters.

The theater seats 1,200, and the play has a cast of about 50. It is based on Harold Bell Wright's famous novel about an Ozark mountain preacher.

and deadly accurate shooting those who were his immediate bosses. He killed five and wounded four. After that he ran out to the company parking lot, took a station wagon and drove to the Piper plant.

There he fired at Mrs. Ramm, wounding her. Gray said Held then drove back to Loganton, went to the home of a neighbor, Donald Quiggle, and shot him dead. He also wounded Quiggle's wife and another person and reportedly took several guns before heading for his own home. He was captured about 95 minutes after the first shots were fired.

Police were in Held's home—17 miles southeast of Lock Haven—waiting for him. He was shot in the hands and legs while on the sidewalk. He was reported in serious condition in Lock Haven Hospital, where all the dead and wounded also were taken.

Officers were not able to say immediately what kind of weapons Held used to shoot and kill.

It was reported that police found three rifles and four pistols in Held's house after he was seized. What set Held off was unknown, Sheriff Jack Boyle of Clinton County said the shooting started shortly after Held reported for work at 8 a.m. When the bullets started flying, workers dropped behind desks and sprawled on the floor shielded by machines.

Lock Haven, a community of 12,000, is 100 miles northwest of Harrisburg, the state capital.

Accidental Shot Kills Girl, 10

NEW MADRID -- Sherrie Langley, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Langley, died from gunshot wounds, fired accidentally at 2 p.m. Sunday, from a 410 gauge shotgun by her brother, Robert Langley, 12. The brother said he did not know the gun was loaded.

The girl was lying on an upper bunk bed of her home and her sister, Gail, 16, was on a lower bunk bed reading, while their brother played with the gun. She was dead on arrival at the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Coroner Leo Hedgepeth ruled the death accidental.

The parents were absent at the time. The father was a patient in a Poplar Bluff hospital. The mother was there on a visit.

Other survivors are two brothers, Charles A. and Donald L. Langley, both stationed in the army in Vietnam.

The body is at the Richards Funeral Home.

Canalou Man Kills Self With Pistol

CANALOU -- Herson Arthur Rogers, 79, retired farmer, was found dead Saturday at his home from a self inflicted bullet wound in his head from a 38 caliber pistol.

The body was found by a neighbor, and an investigation was made by Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, in the absence of Coroner Leo Hedgepeth.

The sheriff ruled the death was suicide. There will be no inquest. Time of death was not established but was believed to have occurred several days before the body was found.

He was born July 3, 1888 and had lived in Canalou most of his life.

He is survived by two nephews, August Rogers, Monett and Roscoe Rogers, Phoenix, Ariz. Services were today at 4 p.m. in the Jackson Funeral Chapel, Sikeston, with the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of the First Assembly of God church, Sikeston, officiating.

Lynda Confesses Being Scared of Housekeeping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Johnson says she is excited and "very, very happy" as she prepares for her Dec. 9 White House wedding — but "scared to death" about housekeeping.

The President's 23-year-old daughter frankly admits "I'm not very domestic", and except for things like brownies, "I don't know how to cook any thing."

In talks with reporters, Lynda reveals a romantic, exuberant and anything-but-practical approach to her forthcoming marriage to 28-year-old Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb of Milwaukee, Wis.

She says "Chuck and I have never discussed money matters," and she doesn't even know how much Robb makes as a Marine captain. "I never asked him." It happens to be about $611 a month.

But Lynda herself is a substantial heiress and holds a part-time magazine job. As newlyweds, they plan to rent a furnished apartment or house in or near Washington for the brief time Robb has before he leaves around the end of February for a year's duty in Vietnam.

Lynda doesn't know yet where they'll honeymoon. But, she's calling and all the other things," already talking about a trip to the Far East to join her husband when he "gets R and R" — rest and recuperation leave for which Marines are eligible after six months in Vietnam. She says she may join him "God willing" in Hawaii or in Australia which her service set friends tell her is currently "very popular."

Beyond Robb's Vietnam tour, the plans of the young couple remain undecided. Lynda was asked whether Robb might eventually leave the Marines and take a job with the Johnson family radio-television station in Texas like her brother-in-law, Patrick Nugent.

"I don't think anyone knows what he's going to do," Lynda replied. "He's going to Vietnam. When he gets back that will be his decision. We haven't discussed it."

Lynda will take a leave of absence Nov. 1 from her magazine job and return to it when Robb goes to Vietnam. She's not sure if she'll stay in their rented quarters or go back to live in the White House then.

Lynda says she'll miss the White House, especially "the service." She admits she's "very lazy" and "I'll miss having someone to make phone calls and all the other things,"

Lynda says she hopes to learn to cook. Happily, she notes that nowadays there are frozen foods to fall back on.

Lynda stood up gaily under a barrage of questions ranging from whether she spent $4,000 for a trousseau (she says she hasn't spent that "on my trousseau or my clothes") to whether she's going to invite ex-beau actor George Hamilton to the Dec. 9 wedding.

"I'm not going to give out the names of anyone on the guest list," Lynda declared. She said the hardest thing about the wedding is making out the guest list.

Some 500 friends and relatives are going to be invited, Lynda says they'll all have to stand during the Episcopal wedding ceremony because of space limitations in the historic East Room.

"It will be a White House wedding with military flavor," Lynda said. She plans to wear a long white wedding gown not yet selected — with long sleeves "because I happen to like long sleeves." Robb will wear his military uniform. Lynda isn't sure they'll have room for the traditional military touch — an archway of crossed swords.

Laws on Local Issues Taped

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Laws on local government are now on computer tape and questions about them can be answered in three minutes.

Dr. Donald Scriven, director of administrative services, said today the codification was under the direction of George Nickolaus, mayor of Columbia and former city counselor, and his staff of law students as director of the governmental affairs section of the University of Missouri.

The laws affecting 67 separate classifications of cities were scattered through 564 chapters of the Missouri statutes. They include 99 classifications of local governmental functions.

Codification on magnetic tape is the first step toward bringing some order out of what Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has called "the piecemeal proliferation of local legislation."

Any city or county official can get his questions answered in minutes on payment of a $5 fee.

Accidental Shot Kills Girl, 10

NEW MADRID — Sherrie Langley, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Langley, died from gunshot wounds, fired accidentally at 2 p.m. Sunday, from a 410 gauge shotgun by her brother, Robert Langley, 12. The brother said he did not know the gun was loaded.

The girl was lying on an upper bunk bed of her home and her sister, Gail, 16, was on a lower bunk bed reading, while their brother played with the gun. She was dead on arrival at the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Coroner Leo Hedgpeath ruled the death accidental.

The parents were absent at the time. The father was a patient in a Poplar Bluff hospital. The mother was there on a visit.

Other survivors are two brothers, Charles A. and Donald L. Langley, both stationed in the army in Vietnam.

The body is at the Richards Funeral Home.

Canalou Man Kills Self With Pistol

CANALOU — Herson Arthur Rogers, 79, retired farmer, was found dead Saturday at his home from a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head from a 38 caliber pistol.

The body was found by a neighbor, and an investigation was made by Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, in the absence of Coroner Leo Hedgpeath.

The sheriff ruled the death was suicide. There will be no inquest. Time of death was not established, but was believed to have occurred several days before the body was found.

He was born July 3, 1888 and had lived in Canalou most of his life.

He is survived by two nephews, August Rogers, Monet and Roscoe Rogers, Phoenix, Ariz.

Services were today at 4 p.m. in the Jackson Funeral Chapel, Sikeston, with the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of the First Assembly of God church, Sikeston, officiating.

Burial was in the Garden of Memories in Sikeston.

Lynda Confesses Being Scared of Housekeeping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Johnson says she is excited and "very, very happy" as she prepares for her Dec. 9 White House wedding — but "scared to death" about housekeeping.

The President's 23-year-old daughter frankly admits "I'm not very domestic" and, except for things like brownies, "I don't know how to cook any thing."

In talks with reporters, Lynda reveals a romantic, exuberant and anything-but-practical approach to her forthcoming marriage to 28-year-old Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb of Milwaukee, Wis.

She says "Chuck and I have never discussed money matters," and she doesn't even know how much Robb makes as a Marine captain. "I never asked him," it happens to be about $611 a month.

But Lynda herself is a substantial heiress and holds a part-time magazine job.

As newlyweds, they plan to rent a furnished apartment or house in or near Washington for the brief time Robb has before he leaves around the end of February for a year's duty in Vietnam.

Lynda doesn't know yet where they'll honeymoon. But, she's called and all the other things.

As for her domestic plans, Lynda says she hopes to learn to cook. Happily, she notes that nowadays there are frozen foods to fall back on.

Lynda stood up gaily under a barrage of questions ranging from whether she spent $4,000 for a trousseau (she says she hasn't spent that "on my trousseau or my clothes") to whether she's going to invite ex-beau actor George Hamilton to the Dec. 9 wedding.

"I'm not going to give out the names of anyone on the guest list," Lynda declared. She said the hardest thing about the wedding is making out the guest list.

Some 500 friends and relatives are going to be invited, Lynda says they'll all have to stand during the Episcopal wedding ceremony because of space limitations in the historic East Room.

"It will be a White House wedding with military flavor," Lynda said. She plans to wear a long white wedding gown not yet selected — with long sleeves "because I happen to like long sleeves." Robb will wear his military uniform, Lynda isn't sure they'll have room for the traditional military touch — an archway of crossed swords.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A HERO COMES HOME

This is a story of one brave soldier who has come home from Vietnam. His name: Christopher J. O'Sullivan. He could have been born anywhere in this country, but he was born and grew up in the outskirts of New York City.

Chris was ten when the family moved to a third-floor walk-up in Astoria, near La Guardia Airport, in 1946. "We'll be living above a candy store," his father, William O'Sullivan, announced to Chris and his three-year-old sister, Hanora.

Bill O'Sullivan had an unblushing love affair with the United States of America. "What a fantastic heritage this country has given us," he said. "What a responsibility to live up to."

In the New York City Police Department, Bill O'Sullivan worked up from rookie to detective. When gasoline rationing ended following World War II, he grabbed every free moment to take his family on "weekend rides" - to Albany, to Gettysburg's battlefields, to Valley Forge, and to Williamsburg, Virginia.

These trips paid off. One night Chris emerged from his room and recited some verses he had written: "Long years ago our forefathers fought. Let not their gallant battles go for naught. They left a heritage, a land that was free. Remember and preserve that liberty."

Chris graduated from high school in 1954 with a class medal for academic excellence, and an award for the best essay on Americanism, given him by the American Legion.

"Why is it," he wrote, "that some citizens do not seem to realize that one of the greatest goals in life is the fight for the safety of our democracy and free way of life?"

Chris O'Sullivan went on to Fordham University, drilled through an ROTC program, and after graduation took specialized training as an airborne ranger and became a U.S. Army officer. Eleanor Scott, his childhood sweetheart, who lived just three blocks from the candy store, and whom he married, joined Chris in Hawaii. In 1962 Second Lieutenant O'Sullivan took a 30-day tour of Vietnam as an observer. Now the father of two boys, Michael, 3, and Stevie, 2, Chris insisted he be sent back to Vietnam to aid the struggle for freedom there.

He asked his father and his mother, Anna, to look after his two boys and take them for those well-remembered rides. Letters from South Vietnam came through more or less regularly:

Dearest Mom and Dad... Snipers fire a thousand and one shots a day. At night the Vietcong control Vietnam, and soldiers and advisers alike pray for the dawn.

Yesterday a mortar round landed ten feet from my jeep. Bullets, mortars, mines, boobytraps, and strafing planes are all as accepted as the sound of the BMT subway. I am an adviser to the Vietnamese 39th Ranger Battalion...

Late in November, 1964, Bill O'Sullivan received a personal note from his son:

I'm sending additional insurance coverage to you because I don't want Eleanor or Mother to know unless the need arises. The Vietcong now outnumber us as well as outgun us. We are surrounded her. The Vietcong ambushed me once, killing my driver. I sleep in uniform and socks.

Later, Chris wrote a letter to sons Mike and Stevie: My dear Sons: Tonight is Christmas Eve, and the lonesomeness may be eased if I talk to you. Through your short lives you have brought your mother and me wonderful moments of love and happiness, moments not measured in hours, but in heartbeats. I cannot protect you from all the hurts of the world, but I can try to protect you from one of its major dangers. And that is why we are thousands of miles apart.

In January, 1965, Bill O'Sullivan suffered a heart attack, but would not allow anyone in the family to write Chris about it. Anna tried to control her voice as she read to her husband: Over here a good fighting unit is used until its soldiers become battle weary and exhausted. It is a tragedy that has only one ending. This battalion will one day be bled dry.

April was the month Chris was due to end his six month's combat service and rotate to a desk job, but his Vietnamese counterpart asked him to remain. Chris O'Sullivan stayed on.

On Easter weekend, 1965, in Washington at a gigantic "Get out of Vietnam" rally, one speaker compared a Vietcong terrorist with Jesus Christ. And the crowd cheered. "It's a strange thing," Bill O'Sullivan told Anna. "Isn't there any cheering for our soldiers who are helping hold off the communists?"

Two days later, April 19, a ferocious Vietcong attack hit the Vietnamese 39th Rangers. Captain O'Sullivan darted from one gun position to another to direct a counter barrage. His boost to the morale of the South Vietnamese troops turned the tide. The Vietcong put up a $500 reward for O'Sullivan's head.

In America, at college and university campuses across the land, the fad for denouncing the war in Vietnam mounted. Was the war merely a maneuver to reach a meaningless settlement? Bill O'Sullivan studied again a special letter from Chris:

I firmly believe in the fight. No solution is so damning as to allow the communists to seize more men, women and children here. Those Vietnamese who care don't want a neutral slavery. They want the free choice of their future.

And this can occur only if you and I see a purpose for the fighting - to help these people live and grow free. This country, like our own in 1776, must receive help.

Finally, in late May, 1965, Captain O'Sullivan was ordered back to Saigon for rest. On his way there, Saturday, May 29, he checked into Quang Ngai. A hundred Vietnamese and three Americans were trapped by the Vietcong in a nearby hamlet. One of the three Americans, all of whom were considered lost along the the Vietnamese, was a close friend of Captain O'Sullivan, Lt. Donald Robison. Hearing no word throughout the long night, Chris wrote to Eleanor. At dawn he led a 300-man counter - attack against the Vietcong. Almost immediately his force was in deep trouble. More than 800 of the enemy surrounded the Vietnamese rangers.

In a field of death Captain O'Sullivan led, helped carry off the wounded, and rallied his men. Charging up a hill with Sergeant Willie D. Tyrone, Chris was hit by shrapnel. Tyrone carried him back to the helicopter landing, but Captain Christopher J. O'Sullivan, Adviser to the 39th Vietnamese Rangers, was dead.

It was Memorial Day, 1965, in America when Eleanor ran to Chris's parents with the fateful telegram.

New York papers carried only brief squibs about the tragedy but Eleanor's telephone began ringing with condolences - and other calls: "Is this Mrs. O'Sullivan? I'd just like to say how glad I am your husband is dead. He got what he deserved. He shouldn't have been in Vietnam. He should have died in a worse way." Then a sharp click. Another voice Eleanor, "It was a good thing he was killed."

Thursday morning the final letter from Chris, the one he wrote at Quang Ngai before going to look for Lt. Don Robison, reached Eleanor in New York:

Dearest Eleanor: Tonight my heart is sadder than it has ever been. Tomorrow we are going to look for Don and his two sergeants. I can only ask your forgiveness because in this operation I am going to do all that is necessary to find Don or his body.

I promised you I would be overly cautious now that I am "rotating" so soon. I cannot keep that promise. Don has a young wife and a three-year-old daughter. If he was looking for me, you would want him to do the best job he could. By the time you receive this letter, it will be all over one way or another. Tonight I pray it will all be over one way or another. Tonight I pray it will be for the best. God have mercy on both of us. Love, Chris.

June 9, 1965 dawned clear in New York City. An Army honor guard formed a corridor along Ditmars Boulevard as the flag-draped coffin was carried to the Immaculate Conception Church for solemn requiem Mass. Captain Christopher J. O'Sullivan had come home... to be buried.

Heard at the coffee table:

"A man will readily complain about his poor memory but will not admit his poor judgment."

Sam Harbin says: "Don't get out of the habit of saving money -- it may come in handy again some day!"

We have good advice to give. We wish we could find someone who would take it.

If we were Governor Hearnese and wanted to be reelected we would forget to include President Johnson in our campaign speeches.

If we were Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick and wanted the office for another 4 years we would forget to mention LBJ in our campaign speeches.

Of course they may want to use their own judgment and go down in defeat proclaiming their loyalty to LBJ.

EXCUSES VS. REASONS

Every now and again some government official gets asked why there is no declaration of war to go along with our increasing commitment of American forces in Vietnam. The very fact that the official answers vary from one time to another leads us to suspect that they may be more on the order of excuses than reasons. None of the explanations given thus far seem to hold up for very long and some of them even sound a bit silly.

For example, Under-Secretary of State George Ball recently offered the explanation that, since the signing of the UN Charter in 1945, we've never declared war. Does that mean that agreement, under the Charter, to preserve international peace, actually entitles signatories to wage war without declaring war?

Another official contention has been that a declaration of war implies complete destruction of the enemy or his unconditional surrender. That strikes us as empty reasoning, since Congress in making a declaration can also specify its objectives. A declaration of war, after the war has begun, is, in fact, a declaration of intent to bring it to a decisive end as quickly as possible.

The main theme of present explanations seems to be that a Congressional declaration of war would make it more difficult to get a negotiated settlement in Vietnam. Setting aside the still unanswered question as to just what is to be negotiated, we believe history refutes that one quite clearly. In less than 4 years after Congress declared war on December 8, 1941, both Nazi Germany and Japan had decided to call it quits. And that was a big war - big not because of the Congressional declaration but because the enemy started it out that way. Now this "little" war in Vietnam has already dragged on for much longer than that with no negotiations yet in sight, let alone any settlement. Then there's that other "little" undeclared war in Korea, started in 1950, negotiated into partial limbo in 1953, but still not really settled.

Perhaps one day when they run out of excuses, our Executive officials will have to tell us their reasons for sending more and more men into a protracted, undeclared and indecisive war on the other side of the globe. We'd much prefer, however, to have Congress reassert its Constitutional authority in such matters and by clear declaration instruct the Executive Branch as to the will of Congress and the people.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Among militant Catholics on Capitol Hill, an anti-Vatican undercurrent has been boiling since the late Pope John began to make conciliatory overtures to the communists. The discontent was abated only slightly since the succession of Pope Paul, who remained lay Catholics just last weekend that they must obey the church hierarchy.

The improving relations between the Vatican and the Kremlin have deeply disturbed such fire-and-brimstone anti-communists as speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., and Rep. Mike Feighan, D-Ohio, all devout Catholics.

They were so shocked over the late Pope's tolerance of communism that they began holding private huddles with troubled clerics and laymen who also feared Pope John was softening up the church toward communism. Other notables joined in some of the discussions, including the late columnist Constantine Brown and Baron Von Guttenberg, a descendant of the inventor of the printing press.

At these back-room sessions, the militants generally took a conspiratorial view. They agreed that Catholics had infiltrated the Curia. Some claimed to have "inside information" that Pope John was being manipulated by his personal secretary, Msgr. Loris Capovilla.

Some of these distinguished Catholics actually expressed secret relief over the passing of Pope John. This was followed by dismay, however, over Pope Paul's similar attitude, expressed in appeals for disarmament, coexistence and his strong and repeated stand for a Vietnam peace.

When the new Pope also urged the United Nations to open its doors to all nations, presumably including Red China, the militants despaired.

Sen. Dodd even dispatched a private letter to the Holy Father, hand-delivered to the Papal

Nuncio in Washington, pleading passionately: "I am worried by the implications of your holiness's proposal that the United Nations should study the right method of opening its doors to all countries now excluded from its roster."

"I gravely fear that, in the context of the present world situation, this statement will be construed by certain people as a plea for the admission of Red China to the United Nations of all moral significance, and would paralyze whatever capacity for peaceful action the United Nations still retains. It would exacerbate rather than reduce the conflict between the free world and the communist world."

It should be interesting to watch how far McCormack, Dodd and Co. will go in their campaign against the Vatican.

TEMPEST OVER POT

Food and drug commissioner James Goddard, who is supposed to warn the public against dangerous drugs, astonishingly has been going around the country defending marijuana.

In Boston, he said that smoking marijuana, in his opinion, was no more dangerous than drinking liquor.

In Minneapolis, he added that he would no more object to his college daughter smoking "pot," as the hippies call the drug, than he would to her drinking a cocktail.

If this is Goddard's idea of what is safe for the public, his qualifications to approve drugs for public distribution would seem to be in serious doubt.

The narcotics bureau, which has had more experience with marijuana than has the lenient Goddard, has found that it often provokes users to violence and weakens their resistance to stronger drugs. Most heroin addicts were started on marijuana.

Narcotics agents also pointed out, parenthetically, that if Goddard's daughter is allowed to smoke "pot," she is subject to arrest for violating federal law.

REQUIREMENTS

Secretary of Defense McNamara has ordered the armed forces to accept more misfits and dropouts for military service, so President Johnson won't be forced to widen the draft or call up the reserves during the 1968 election year.

One hundred thousand draftees from the next-lowest category, who have been turned down in the past, will be inducted this year. They will be given special training with more emphasis on the use of charts, films and closed-circuit television.

The armed services also have been less strict about washing out recruits who don't make the grade during basic training. The marines, for example, set aside a diet table and give special training to overweight recruits who formerly would have been discharged.

Misfits are also given a second chance. Those who are hard to handle, for example, are stripped of their clothes and compelled to stand in front of a mirror, starknaked, admiring themselves for a couple of hours. This has worked miracles in taking the starch out of them.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS! A HERO COMES HOME

This is a story of one brave soldier who has come home from Vietnam. His name: Christopher J. O'Sullivan. He could have been born anywhere in this country, but he was born and grew up in the outskirts of New York City.

Chris was ten when the family moved to a third-floor walk-up in Astoria, near La Guardia Airport, in 1946. "We'll be living above a candy store," his father, William O'Sullivan, announced to Chris and his three-year-old sister, Hanora.

Bill O'Sullivan had an unblinking love affair with the United States of America. "What a fantastic heritage this country has given us," he said, "What a responsibility to live up to."

In the New York City Police Department, Bill O'Sullivan worked up from rookie to detective. When gasoline rationing ended following World War II, he grabbed every free moment to take his family on "weekend rides" - to Albany, to Gettysburg's battlefields, to Valley Forge, and to Williamsburg, Virginia.

These trips paid off. One night Chris emerged from his room and recited some verses he had written: "Long years ago our forefathers fought. Let not their gallant battles go for naught. They left a heritage, a land that was free. Remember and preserve that liberty."

Chris graduated from high school in 1954 with a class medal for academic excellence, and an award for the best essay on Americanism, given him by the American Legion.

"Why is it," he wrote, "that some citizens do not seem to realize that one of the greatest goals in life is the fight for the safety of our democracy and free way of life?"

Chris O'Sullivan went on to Fordham University, drilled through an ROTC program, and after graduation took specialized training as an airborne ranger and became a U.S. Army officer. Eleanor Scott, his childhood sweetheart, who lived just three blocks from the candy store, and whom he married, joined Chris in Hawaii. In 1962 Second Lieutenant O'Sullivan took a 30-day tour of Vietnam as an observer. Now the father of two boys, Michael, 3, and Stevie, 2, Chris insisted he be sent back to Vietnam to aid the struggle for freedom there.

He asked his father and his mother, Anna, to look after his two boys and take them for those well-remembered rides. Letters from South Vietnam came through more or less regularly:

"Dearest Mom and Dad... Snipers fire a thousand and one shots a day. At night the Vietcong control Vietnam, and soldiers and advisers alike pray for the dawn."

Yesterday a mortar round landed ten feet from my jeep. Bullets, mortars, mines, boobytraps, and strafing planes are all as accepted as the sound of the BMT subway. I am an adviser to the Vietnamese 39th Ranger Battalion.

Late in November, 1964, Bill O'Sullivan received a personal note from his son:

"I'm sending additional insurance coverage to you because I don't want Eleanor or Mother to know unless the need arises. The Vietcong now outnumber us as well as outgun us. We are surrounded her. The Vietcong ambushed me once, killing my driver. I sleep in uniform and socks."

Later, Chris wrote a letter to sons Mike and Stevie: My dear Sons: Tonight is Christmas Eve, and the lonesomeness may be eased if I talk to you. Through your short lives you have brought your mother and me wonderful moments of love and happiness, moments not measured in hours, but in heartbeats. I cannot protect you from all the hurts of the world, but I can try to protect you from one of its major dangers. And that is why we are thousands of miles apart.

In January, 1965, Bill O'Sullivan suffered a heart attack, but would not allow anyone in the family to write Chris about it. Anna tried to control her voice as she read to her husband:

Over here a good fighting unit is used until its soldiers become battle weary and exhausted. It is a tragedy that has only one ending. This battalion will one day be bled dry.

April was the month Chris was due to end his six month's combat service and rotate to a desk job, but his Vietnamese counterpart asked him to remain. Chris O'Sullivan stayed on.

On Easter weekend, 1965, in Washington at a gigantic "Get out of Vietnam" rally, one speaker compared a Vietcong terrorist with Jesus Christ. And the crowd cheered. "It's a strange thing," Bill O'Sullivan told Anna. "Isn't there any cheering for our soldiers who are helping hold off the communists?"

Two days later, April 19, a ferocious Vietcong attack hit the Vietnamese 39th Rangers. Captain O'Sullivan darted from one gun position to another to direct a counter barrage. His boost to the morale of the South Vietnamese troops turned the tide. The Vietcong put up a $500 reward for O'Sullivan's head.

In America, at college and university campuses across the land, the fad for denouncing the war in Vietnam mounted. Was the war merely a maneuver to reach a meaningless settlement? Bill O'Sullivan studied again a special letter from Chris:

I firmly believe in the fight. No solution is so damning as to allow the communists to seize more men, women and children here. Those Vietnamese who care don't want a neutral slavery. They want the free choice of their future. And this can occur only if you and I see a purpose for the fighting - to help these people live and grow free. This country, like our own in 1776, must receive help.

Finally, in late May, 1965, Captain O'Sullivan was ordered back to Saigon for rest. On his way there, Saturday, May 29, he checked into Quang Ngai. A hundred Vietnamese and three Americans were trapped by the Vietcong in a nearby hamlet. One of the three Americans, all of whom were considered lost along the Vietnamese, was a close friend of Captain O'Sullivan, Lt. Donald Robison. Hearing no word throughout the long night, Chris wrote to Eleanor. At dawn he led a 300-man counter-attack against the Vietcong. Almost immediately his force was in deep trouble. More than 800 of the enemy surrounded the Vietnamese rangers.

In a field of death Captain O'Sullivan led, helped carry off the wounded, and rallied his men. Charging up a hill with Sergeant Willie D. Tyrone, Chris was hit by shrapnel. Tyrone carried him back to the helicopter landing, but Captain Christopher J. O'Sullivan, Adviser to the 39th Vietnamese Rangers, was dead.

It was Memorial Day, 1965, in America when Eleanor ran to Chris's parents with the fateful telegram.

New York papers carried only brief squibs about the tragedy but Eleanor's telephone began ringing with condolences - and other calls: "Is this Mrs. O'Sullivan? I'd just like to say how glad I am your husband is dead. He got what he deserved. He shouldn't have been in Vietnam. He should have died in a worse way." Then a sharp click. Another voice Eleanor, "It was a good thing he was killed."

Thursday morning the final letter from Chris, the one he wrote at Quang Ngai before going to look for Lt. Don Robison, reached Eleanor in New York:

Dearest Eleanor: Tonight my heart is sadder than it has ever been. Tomorrow we are going to look for Don and his two sergeants. I can only ask your forgiveness because in this operation I am going to do all that is necessary to find Don or his body.

I promised you I would be overly cautious now that I am "rotating" so soon. I cannot keep that promise. Don has a young wife and a three-year-old daughter. If he was looking for me, you would want him to do the best job he could. By the time you receive this letter, it will be all over one way or another. Tonight I pray it will all be over one way or another. Tonight I pray it will be for the best. God have mercy on both of us. Love, Chris.

June 9, 1965 dawned clear in New York City. An Army honor guard formed a corridor along Ditmars Boulevard as the flag-draped coffin was carried to the Immaculate Conception Church for solemn requiem Mass. Captain Christopher J. O'Sullivan had come home.. to be buried.

Heard at the coffee table:

"A man will readily complain about his poor memory but will not admit his poor judgment."

Sam Harbin says: "Don't get out of the habit of saving money -- it may come in handy again some day!"

We have good advice to give. We wish we could find someone who would take it.

If we were Governor Hearnes and wanted to be reelected we would forget to include President Johnson in our campaign speeches.

If we were Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick and wanted the office for another 4 years we would forget to mention LBJ in our campaign speeches.

Of course they may want to use their own judgment and go down in defeat proclaiming their loyalty to LBJ.

NEW YORK (AP) - Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Diet-conscious Americans now eat 177 eggs each a year for breakfast, which pleases those doctors who think most of us need more protein.

Some women of delicate appetite say they eat no more than a bird. They usually don't say what bird they have in mind, but it couldn't be a baby robin. Shortly after being hatched, those tiny birds need 14 feet of earthworms a day to satisfy their hunger.

Flight to freedom: Since Fidel Castro came to power in 1959, one in every 21 Cubans - some 370,000 - has fled to the United States for refuge, and 700,000 more are listed as hoping to.

Quotable notables: "Don't put no restrictions on da people. Leave 'em ta hell alone." - Jimmy Durante.

Lack of prosperity note: Poverty is a human not just a racial problem. According to U.S. government figures, in 1966 there were 20.1 million poor white people in America and 9.4 million poor Negroes.

Old types of insurance: You not only can insure your pet dog or cat today, you can also insure your home for damages resulting from poor design, workmanship or materials. Lloyds of London offers such a policy.

Cost of government: Someone has figured out that the average American now works 89 days a year to earn the 37 per cent of his income that goes to pay his federal, state and city taxes. That means you're in the month of May before you start working for yourself.

Spooky: We worry about witches and hobgoblins only one night of the year - on Halloween. But the National Geographic Society reports that Mustang, a mountain kingdom in Nepal, is haunted year-round by 416 assorted demons of land, sky, fire and water. A demon trap hangs over the doorway of every home there to frighten away these ghostly intruders.

Worth remembering: "It's impossible for a woman to be married to the same man for 50 years. After the first 25, he's not the same man."

Folklore: Whistling in a home or office brings bad luck. When gulls fly inland, storms are brewing; when gulls fly seaward, the weather will stay fair. Some waiters believe that if the first customer leaves a big tip, their tips for the rest of the day will be small. If you turn a photograph of someone to the wall, evil spirits will attack him.

It was Fred Allen who observed, "A conference is a gathering of important people who singly can do nothing, but together can decide that nothing can be done."

It's almost impossible to eat enough milk-rich foods to supply your daily calcium needs without drinking milk, too.

CARE OF CLOTHES: To keep patent leather formal shoes in good shape and best appearance, rub them with a drop or two of baby oil on a piece of cotton to remove soil, cover scratches and make them shine... If you are bothered by worn shoelaces breaking at the most inconvenient times, make it a point to move the laces a fraction of an inch through their eyelets in either direction. This cuts down wear and practically doubles the life of laces.

EXCUSES VS. REASONS
Every now and again some government official gets asked why there is no declaration of war to go along with our increasing commitment of American forces in Vietnam. The very fact that the official answers vary from one time to another leads us to suspect that they may be more on the order of excuses than reasons. None of the explanations given thus far seem to hold up for very long and some of them even sound a bit silly.

For example, Under-Secretary of State George Ball recently offered the explanation that, since the signing of the UN Charter in 1945, we've never declared war. Does that mean that agreement, under the Charter, to preserve international peace, actually entitles signatories to wage war without declaring war?

Another official contention has been that a declaration of war implies complete destruction of the enemy or his unconditional surrender. That strikes us as empty reasoning, since Congress in making a declaration can also specify its objectives. A declaration of war, after the war has begun, is, in fact, a declaration of intent to bring it to a decisive end as quickly as possible. The main theme of present explanations seems to be that a Congressional declaration of war would make it more difficult to get a negotiated settlement in Vietnam. Setting aside the still unanswered question as to just what is to be negotiated, we believe history refutes that one quite clearly. In less than 4 years after Congress declared war on December 8, 1941, both Nazi Germany and Japan had decided to call it quits. And that was a big war - big not because of the Congressional declaration but because the enemy started it out that way. Now this "little" war in Vietnam has already dragged on for much longer than that with no negotiations yet in sight, let alone any settlement. Then there's that other "little" undeclared war in Korea, started in 1950, negotiated into partial limbo in 1953, but still not really settled.

Perhaps one day when they run out of excuses, our Executive officials will have to tell us their reasons for sending more and more men into a protracted, undeclared and indecisive war on the other side of the globe. We'd much prefer, however, to have Congress reassert its Constitutional authority in such matters and by clear declaration instruct the Executive Branch as to the will of Congress and the people.

DRESS TIPS: Mussed ties will look better if hung up in the bathroom while you take a hot, steamy shower. Then let them dry

Nuncio in Washington, pleading passionately: "I am worried by the implications of your holiness's proposal that the United Nations should study the right method of opening its doors to all countries now excluded from its roster."

It would exacerbate rather than reduce the conflict between the free world and the communist world."

It should be interesting to watch how far McCormack, Dodd and Co. will go in their campaign against the Vatican.

TEMPEST OVER POT
Food and drug commissioner James Goddard, who is supposed to warn the public against dangerous drugs, astonishingly has been going around the country defending marijuana.

In Boston, he said that smoking marijuana, in his opinion, was no more dangerous than drinking liquor.

In Minneapolis, he added that he would no more object to his college daughter smoking "pot," as the hippies call the drug, than he would to her drinking a cocktail.

Pro-Pacific Labor Chiefs in the Pacific Developing Strategy to Paralyze All U.S. Supply Shipments into Vietnam.

New York - There now is positive evidence that the Soviet's obvious. We therefore request World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) has completed detailed plans for the crippling of America's sea lift of war material, machines, food and even manpower now flowing into South Vietnam.

Details of this global Soviet strategy to paralyze ports now being used by America and other allies have just been disclosed at a closed-door conference of U.S. waterfront labor leaders in big Joe Curran's National Maritime Union (NMU) "hall."

Then a warning of this Moscow action, which will be concentrated in the Pacific and extended to European docks, was dispatched to President Johnson in a communication signed by Curran and four other U.S. maritime labor chiefs - Teddy Gleason, leader of the International Longshoremen's Assn.; Jesse Calhoun, head of the Marine Engineers; Bill Steinberg, chief of the radio operators, and Capt. They pledged swift retaliatory action. Since the Communist Socialist controlled 4 million-member Japanese Confederation of Trade Unions (Sohyo) is the pivot of this sea assault on America's supplies, counter-action could mean the shutting of America's ports to all Japanese ocean-borne commerce.

First word of this Soviet-Indo strategem designed to slow the flood of American supplies for the Southeast Asian war fronts came from Hans with the support of the AFL-Imhof, leader of the International Transport Workers' Federation (ITF). This is a London-based coalition of air, land and sea transport unions straddling the entire free world.

It was William Perry, assistant to NMU president Joe Curran, who then catalyzed the moves for "counteraction" to labor leaders urged Mr. Johnson. "Frustrate" the paralysis of American war shipping. Linda Jane Leonberger Says Vows With Gary David Fowler

NEW MADRID -- A ceremony Oct. 6 in the First Presbyterian church, Miss Linda Jane Leonberger became the bride of Gary David Fowler, route one, Lilbourn. The Rev. Peter Fisher officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dixie Leonberger and Fowler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Fowler route one, Lilbourn.

On either side of the altar were baskets of white gladioli. The pews were appointed with bouquets of white and yellow mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Vernon M. Puckett, was gowning in a creation of white silk satin and lace. The gown featured a deep lace yoke with a rounded neckline and bell shaped sleeves that ended below the elbows. The skirt of silk satin was slim with an A-line styling. Linda Jane Leonberger Says Vows With Gary David Fowler

NEW MADRID -- A ceremony Oct. 6 in the First Presbyterian church, Miss Linda Jane Leonberger became the bride of Gary David Fowler, route one, Lilbourn. The Rev. Peter Fisher officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dixie Leonberger and Fowler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Fowler route one, Lilbourn.

On either side of the altar were baskets of white gladioli. The pews were appointed with bouquets of white and yellow mums. The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Vernon M. Puckett, was groomed in a creation of white silk satin and lace. The gown featured a deep lace yoke with a rounded neckline and bell-shaped sleeves that ended below the elbows. The skirt of silk satin was slim with an A-line styling. A train of white lace drifted from the empire waist and her fingertip veil billowed from a demi-cap of tiny seed pearls and silk satin roses. She carried a Bible, a gift from her maternal grandmother, adorned with a yellow throat white orchid encircled by white snowdrift mums.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sharon Blankenship of Kewanee and bridesmaid was Miss Mary Lou Halliday of Alton, Ill., both sorority sisters of the bride. They wore gowns of yellow silk satin featuring empire waistlines and A-line skirts. The bodices were styled with rounded necklines and short sleeves. Their headpieces were short veils attached to satin bows matching their gowns. Each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

James Box of Sikeston was best man and groomsman was Larry Glenn. Angela Kay Lloyd, the bride's cousin, of St. Louis served as flower girl. Her dress and headpiece was identical to the bridesmaids in color and styling. She carried a basket of rose petals. Kirk Lloyd of St. Louis, the bride's cousin, carried the rings on a white satin pillow with lace trim and ribbon streamers.

Organist was Mrs. Donald Lloy of St. Louis, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Tony Fowler, New Madrid, cousin of the groom, and Art Puckett, McClure, Ill., cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a peacock blue ribbon knit suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white orchids. The groom's mother was dressed in a light blue wool dress with black accessories and her corsage was white orchids.

A yellow and white decorating scheme was carried out for the reception held at the community building immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. A silver coffee service and crystal punch bowl were on each end of the table. Mints and nuts were served from silver compotes. Serving were Mrs. Bruce Fowler, sister-in-law of the groom, Miss Sharon Fowler, sister of the groom and Miss Mary McHugh, grandmother, adorned with a yellow throat white orchid encircled by white snowdrift mums.

For going away the bride wore a navy blue and white dress with navy accessories and an orchid. The bride is a junior at Southeast Missouri College in Cape Girardeau majoring in home economics.

Bloomfield Couple Marks Anniversary

BLOOMFIELD -- Mr. and Mrs. Warner Christian celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Oct. 15 at an open house from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

During the calling hours, some 100 relatives and friends extended congratulations and long distance telephone calls were received from their one son, Carroll, of Sacramento, Calif., who could not be present and from friends, the Prince McDougals of Orange Lake, Fla., who could not also attend.

Guests were served cake, punch, nuts, mints and coffee from a table laid with lace over gold and centered with an arrangement of gold roses. The wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Presiding at the guest book was a granddaughter, Miss Jecky Richmond and another granddaughter, Miss Donna Richmond was at the gift table.

The daughters and daughters-in-law assisted at the serving table.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian have nine children, Mrs. Thel Lewis, Puxico, Harold Christian, Madison, Ill.; Carroll Christian of Sacramento; Mrs. Norman Underwood, and Mrs. T.C. Milner, Bloomfield; Mrs. Richard McDougall, Sikeston, Charles Christian, Bloomfield and Allen Christian, Dexter. They have 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian were married 50 years ago on Oct. 3 at her home at Pleasant Valley. She is the former Erma Harris.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harris, Flint, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Wagster, Malden, Mrs. Esther Graves, Poplar Bluff; Mr. and Mrs. Truman Galloway, Evansville, Ind.; Mrs. Pauline Allen Bernice; Mrs. Eugene Harris, Dr. F.A. THOSE HORRID AGE SPOTS*

FADE THEM OUT

*Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Fade them away with new ESOTERICA, that medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment on the skin, makes hands look white and young again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, greaseless base for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. At leading drug and toiletry counters and beauty shops. If you have these age-revealing brown spots, blotches, or if you want clearer, lighter skin, begin using ESOTERICA today.

ESOTERICA SOAP softens skin, helps clear surface blemishes. Combats dryness.

JOHN ROLAND (23), St. Louis Cardinal halfback, picks up five yards in the first quarter in the football game against Philadelphia at St. Louis Sunday. He was stopped by Aaron Martin (42), Roland, a former University of Missouri All-American, picked up 71 yards in 17 carries and scored one touchdown as the Cardinals whipped the Eagles, 48-14.

Hart Rifles Big Red To Easy 48-14 Win

By the Associated Press Dave Williams caught one TD Jim Hart's strong arm put pass apiece. Cardinals' attack, but Gale Sayers' sore leg left the Chicago Bears offenseless. Hart, St. Louis' sensational rookie quarterback, fired four touchdown passes Sunday in a 48-14 bombardment of the Philadelphia Eagles. The Cards' fourth triumph in six games kept them tied for the National Football League's Central Division lead with the Cleveland Browns, who blanked the Sayers-less Bears 24-0 for their fourth straight victory. Green Bay's NFL champions also flexed their muscles in demolishing New York 48-21 while Minnesota fought Baltimore to a 20-20 standoff, Los Angeles and Washington played to a 28-28 tie. San Francisco whipped New Orleans 27-13, Dallas edged Pittsburgh 24-21 and Detroit beat Atlanta 24-3. Hart hit on 16 of 29 passes for 267 yards as St. Louis poured across 45 straight points to wipe out the Eagles' 14-3 first-quarter lead. Jackie Smith grabbed a pair of Hart strikes for 74 and eight-yard scoring plays and Bobby Joe Conrad and rookie

Phillips produced a 20-13 edge in the fourth quarter. But Johnny Unitas, whose 20 completions set an NFL career mark of 2,131, brought the Colts back 80 yards for the tying touchdown, climaxing the drive with a three-yard pitch to John Mackey. Roman Gabriel's six-yard TD pass to Bernie Casey with 64 seconds to play capped a 75-yard march and earned the Rams a tie with the Redskins. Sonny Jurgensen's fourth scoring pass, a 39-yarder to Jerry Smith, gave Washington a 28-21 lead minutes before Gabriel hit for the tying touchdown. The deadlocks were the second straight for both the Colts and Rams, who struggled to a 24-24 tie last week. Minnesota, which upended the Packers 10-7 last Sunday, barely missed knocking off the unbeaten Colts behind Joe Kapp, whose 11-yard TD pass to Red

John Brodie passed for two touchdowns and Tommy Davis kicked a pair of field goals, leading the 49ers past winless New Orleans for their fifth victory in six games. Craig Morton hit Pettis Norman on a five-yard TD pass with 24 seconds to play, giving the Cowboys the nod over Pittsburgh in another wild finish. Morton's third scoring flip of the game came just 48 seconds after the Steelers grabbed the lead on Kent Nix' 11-yard TD pass to J.R. Wilburn. Detroit's Karl Sweetan, making his first start of the season, connected with Tom Nowatzke and Bill Malinchak for a pair of fourth-quarter scoring passes, breaking up a tight defensive battle with the Falcons.

Chargers Have Little Trouble Keeping Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Coach Sid Gillman of San Diego doesn't worry anymore about John Hadl giving up the football, but those shapely blondes are starting to give him trouble. It began Sunday, more unexpectedly than the Chargers' two touchdowns on his first three tosses against the Broncos to snap a 14-14 deadlock with scoring passes of 66 yards to Dick Post, five yards to Willie Frazier and 67 yards to Lance Alworth.

Jets continued to roll along as the Eastern Division leader with a 34-14 triumph over Miami. Hadl, troubled by interceptions during his six-year AFL career, was the man of the hour for the Chargers. He shook off perfectly than the Chargers' two touchdowns on his first three tosses against the Broncos to snap a 14-14 deadlock with scoring passes of 66 yards to Dick Post, five yards to Willie Frazier and 67 yards to Lance Alworth.

Former Golden Glove Standout Killed in Action

CAIRO -- Pfc. Richard W. Jones, 19, a member of Company D, 2 Battalion, 28th Infantry, 1st division was killed in Vietnam Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. Jones, son of Georgia Jones, 314-26th Street, was a well-known Golden Gloves boxer for the Cairo team before entering the service in 1966. He won the state Golden Gloves tournament in the 112-pound class in 1965 and was voted outstanding novice in his class. In 1966, he fought in the St. Louis tournament and went to the finals before being beaten. Following this tournament, he entered open competition, lost 10 pounds and fought in the 120-pound class. Jones was known by the nickname "Dynamite" when he fought for Cairo.

Brune Leads Sooners Next After Cape Into MIAA Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Cape Girardeau State is alone in first place in MIAA football after a convincing 30-8 victory over Maryville State, while unbeaten William Jewell and once-beaten Tarkio stayed on top in the MCAU. Springfield State's defending MIAA champs were knocked off 16-0 at home by Kirksville, which turned the trick on a pass interception TD by Gary Meyers and three field goals by Mike Bielle. Greg Brune scored twice and threw 34 and 33-yard TD passes to John Diepenbrock in Cape's victory. Maryville was held to 139 total yards. Ken Brumley scored on runs of 13 and 12 yards and passed for 105 in Warrensburg's 21-0 victory over Rolla. This Saturday Cape plays at Rolla, Springfield at Maryville and Warrensburg at Kirksville. This Saturday, it's Nebraska Wesleyan at William Jewell, Tarkio at Westmar of Iowa, Missouri Valley at Washington, Graceland at Iowa Wesleyan, Culver-Stocketon at Eureka and Central Methodist at Illinois College.

Hart hit on 16 of 29 passes for 267 yards as St. Louis poured across 45 straight points to wipe out the Eagles' 14-3 first-quarter lead. Jackie Smith grabbed a pair of Hart strikes for 74 and eight-yard scoring plays and Bobby Joe Conrad and rookie Phillips produced a 20-13 edge in the fourth quarter.

But Johnny Unitas, whose 20 completions set an NFL career mark of 2,131, brought the Colts back 80 yards for the tying touchdown, climaxing the drive with a three-yard pitch to John Mackey.

Roman Gabriel's six-yard TD pass to Bernie Casey with 64 seconds to play capped a 75-yard march and earned the Rams a tie with the Redskins. Sonny Jurgensen's fourth scoring pass, a 39-yarder to Jerry Smith, gave Washington a 28-21 lead minutes before Gabriel hit for the tying touchdown.

The deadlocks were the second straight for both the Colts and Rams, who struggled to a 24-24 tie last week.

John Brodie passed for two touchdowns and Tommy Davis kicked a pair of field goals, leading the 49ers past winless New Orleans for their fifth victory in six games.

Craig Morton hit Pettis Norman on a five-yard TD pass with 24 seconds to play, giving the Cowboys the nod over Pittsburgh in another wild finish. Morton's third scoring flip of the game came just 48 seconds after the Steelers grabbed the lead on Kent Nix' 11-yard TD pass to J.R. Wilburn.

Detroit's Karl Sweetan, making his first start of the season, connected with Tom Nowatzke and Bill Malinchak for a pair of fourth-quarter scoring passes, breaking up a tight defensive battle with the Falcons.

Chargers Have Little Trouble Keeping Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Coach Sid Gillman of San Diego doesn't worry anymore about a 34-14 triumph over Miami. Had, troubled by interceptions during his six-year AFL career, was the man of the hour for the Chargers. He shook off two interceptions on his first three tosses against the Broncos to snap a 14-14 deadlock with scoring passes of 66 yards to Dick Post, five yards to Willie Frazier and 67 yards to Lance Alworth.

"I don't worry anymore about Had," Gillman said. "He can have a shaky start and still come back with a great game. He knows and I know that he's not going to have a bad game."

While Hadl was pulling out the game for San Diego, a gal who said her name was Beverly Hutchison of Colorado was the woman of the hour.

She came out of the east stands, vaulted a three-foot-high fence and swiped the football just as the Denver center moved over it.

The victory kept them the American League's only unbeaten team and still atop the Western Division, a half-game ahead of Oakland.

The Raiders easily ran their record to 5-1 behind Daryle Lamonica's four scoring passes that carried them to a 48-14 rout over Boston and set up a clash against San Diego next Sunday.

The league's defending champions, Kansas City, fell further behind when Houston upset them 24-19, while the New York Jets continued to roll along as the Eastern Division leader with a 34-14 triumph over Miami.

Former Golden Glove Standout Killed in Action

CAIRO - Pfc. Richard W. Jones, 19, a member of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 28th Infantry, 1st division was killed in Vietnam Tuesday at 11:30 a.m.

Jones, son of Georgia Jones 314-26th Street, was a well-known Golden Gloves boxer for the Cairo team before entering the service in 1966.

He won the state Golden Gloves tournament in the 115-pound class in 1965 and was voted outstanding novice in his class. In 1966, he fought in the St. Louis tournament and went to the finals before being beaten. Following this tournament, he entered open competition, lost 10 pounds and fought in the 126-pound class.

Jones was known by the nickname "Dynamite" when he fought for Cairo.

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, one of baseball's all-time greats, is back in the game as executive vice president of the new Oakland Athletics.

DiMaggio signed a two-year contract to run the club for Charles O. Finley, the insurance tycoon who last week succeeded in getting his American League franchise shifted from Kansas City to Oakland.

THE MAN WHO GOT AWAY... St. Louis Cardinal defensive back Larry Wilson walks off the football field talking to himself after Philadelphia Eagle end Jim Kelly got behind him and caught a touchdown pass from quarterback Norm Snead. The score put the Eagles ahead in the first quarter, 6-0, but Wilson's frown changed to a smile as Cardinals bounced back to take the win, 48-14, at St. Louis.

DAVE WILLIAMS (80), St. Louis Cardinal rookie flanker, catches a 17-yard touchdown pass from Quarterback Jim Hart in the second quarter as the football Cardinals take a 19-14 lead over the Philadelphia Eagles at St. Louis Sunday. The defender, Mike Morgan (89), tripped as he tried to defend against the pass. The Cardinals won, 48-14. (Football photos by Warren C. Sokolis.)

Brune Leads Sooners Next After Cape Into MIAA Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Cape Girardeau State is alone in first place in MIAA football after a convincing 30-8 victory over Maryville State, while unbeaten William Jewell and once-beaten Tarkio stayed on top in the MCAU.

Springfield State's defending MIAA champs were knocked off 16-0 at home by Kirksville, which turned the trick on a pass interception TD by Gary Meyers and three field goals by Mike Bielle.

Greg Brune scored twice and threw 34 and 33-yard TD passes to John Diepenbrock in Cape's victory. Maryville was held to 139 total yards, Ken Brumley scored on runs of 13 and 12 yards and passed for 105 in Warrensburg's 21-0 victory over Rolla.

This Saturday Cape plays at Rolla, Springfield at Maryville and Warrensburg at Kirksville.

This Saturday, it's Nebraska Wesleyan at William Jewell, Tarkio at Westminster of Iowa, Missouri Valley at Washington, Graceland at Iowa Wesleyan, Culver-Stockton at Eureka and Central Methodist at Illinois College.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Quick-striking Oklahoma may be the team to beat Colorado's unbeaten, ball-stealing Buffaloes in the zany Big Eight football title chase, but first OU must prove it by beating Missouri at Columbia Saturday.

Colorado ended Nebraska's four-year championship reign with a 21-16 victory in full view of a record Big Eight crowd of 65,766 at Lincoln. Coach Eddie Crowder termed it a "great defensive victory." He was thinking of four interceptions returned for 188 yards, a league record.

Oklahoma, meanwhile, looked great running up 515 yards in a 46-7 victory at Kansas State. Vince Gibson, K-State coach, played without All-Big Eight full-back "their offense was simply back Wilmer Cooks and slotback John Farler.

Missouri got an early lift from Roger Wehrli's 96-yard opening fense cold last year and won 10-7, and Mizzou is still in the picture after winning 23-7 at Iowa State.

Kansas also may be a title factor. The Jayhawks made their league record 2-0 by winning 26-15 at Oklahoma State with a 420-yard attack led by Bob Douglass, whose 253 yards was third highest in KU history. Crowder was asked whether his club is now over its biggest hurdle.

"Biggest is a ridiculous word in sports," he said. "All you have to do is think one team is ne biggest and the other not Doubtless Crowder is thinking of Saturday's game at Boulder with 'Oklahoma State, the club which knocked off CU 11-10 in '66. Iowa State is at Kansas, Nebraska at TCU and K-State at Arkansas in other games.

Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney said "This team wanted to win as much as any team I've ever had. Over the years we've played Colorado we've had a lot of good breaks and some have let us win."

Four lost fumbles and four in-ceptions cancelled the effects of a 402 yards of total offense by 46-7 victory at Kansas State. Colorado played without All-Big Eight full-back "their offense was simply back Wilmer Cooks and slotback John Farler.

Highlights and Sidelights

PASSENGER TRAINS ON DECLINE IN STATE
JEFFERSON CITY -- Passenger rail service is vanishing in Missouri -- and the pattern is being repeated throughout the country with the exception of a few metropolitan areas.

Some observers in the state have even predicted that there will be no passenger trains operating in the state in five years -- or at the least, none offering local services.

The Missouri Public Service Commission last week heard arguments from citizens and city officials opposing petitions by the Missouri Pacific and the Norfolk and Western railroads to close down more of their passenger trains.

MoPac is seeking to drop two local passenger trains from St. Louis to Kansas City, both of which run through Jefferson City. Norfolk and Western is asking to discontinue one of its passenger trains which runs a northern route from St. Louis to Kansas City.

But in the face of local protests, a spokesman for the Missouri Pacific Railroad cited losses of $163,593 in 1966 in support of its request.

E. Earl Spencer, passenger traffic manager, testifying on the deficits, said the two MoPac trains, Nos. 14 and 17, already are $86,014 in the red through the first eight months this year, and that the removal of a U.S. Mail car this week would cost the railroad an additional $18,000 a year.

Spencer said an increase in automobile travel, particularly since the completion of Interstate 70 between the two cities, and air and bus transportation are responsible for steadily declining passenger train patronage.

The action by the Post Office Department is being repeated throughout the nation. In an effort to economize and to provide faster mail service, first-class mail is being taken off of railroads and transferred to busses, trucks and even airlines.

As a result, more railroads are petitioning the Public Service Commission to reduce their passenger services -- and most are granted their requests.

But even if the PSC refuses to grant such a "discontinuance," the railroads still have the means to terminate passenger service.

Under a 1958 statute passed by Congress, a state public service commission has only 120 days in which to act on a petition for a discontinuance. If no action is taken within that time, the railroad may submit its request to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D.C., where the approval generally will be given.

And if the PSC does act, but denies the request, the railroad still may seek ICC action and get a completely new hearing in Washington.

This means that the hearings which the PSC is conducting on the MoPac and Norfolk and Western petitions will have little bearing in the long run on whether they are allowed to reduce their passenger services.

The federal law was passed at a time when state public service commissions were more reluctant to grant discontinuances and railroads were beginning to lose large sums of money from their passenger operations.

Its effect is indicated by the fact that in 1959, one year after its passage, five railroads discontinued nine passenger trains, and in 1960, seven railroads stopped passenger service for a total of 11 trains.

Also in 1958, 12 railroad companies were maintaining passenger services in Missouri. Today, four have discontinued all passenger service, three have greatly reduced services to only a few connections (generally on the borders of the state), and five are operating small local routes.

SPECULATION RISES ON TOLL ROAD LOCATIONS
Citizens throughout the state are speculating with increased interest over possible toll road routes now that the governor's bill, passed by the last General Assembly, is officially in effect.

The bill went into effect Oct. 13 -- 90 days after the end of the regular legislative session. A part of Gov. Warren Hearnes' legislative program last session, it establishes a Turnpike Authority which includes the governor and the six members of the State Highway Commission.

The constitutionality of a provision of the bill may be challenged in a test case soon that part which provides unlimited drawing rights on state highway funds for the construction of toll roads.

But this possibility is not slowing down efforts to plan future roads, and preparations already have been made by citizens concerning possible routes from Kansas City south, Kansas City toward Chicago, St. Louis to Springfield, and Kansas City to Cape Girardeau.

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY

Cotton harvest in Southeast Missouri starting on limited scales bolls are opening slowly. Local labor sufficient.

Soybean harvest, fall plowing and wheat sowing are primary farming activities over most of the state.

Twenty year-round and 91 seasonal farm placements reported last week.

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway - Telephone: 471-2731

Harvesting of cotton, soybeans and corn underway. Sowing of wheat acreage completed. Labor supply and demand in balance, with a few inquiries by small family groups only, asking about citrus harvest in Florida.

Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp, Route #2, Sikeston.

The Camp served 1,236 migrants last week. 24 were going to Oklahoma and 1,212 were returning to their homes in Texas.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9606

Bean harvest continues to progress smoothly. Good average per acre reported. Cotton harvest will get underway October 16, with local help standing by, mostly on-farm labor. Some schools have dismissed for cotton harvest in lower Butler County. They are expected to be out for three weeks.

Caruthersville: 300 Ward Street - Telephone: Edison 3-2416

Cotton harvest continues to move slowly. A few machines are being used but not extensively as most of the cotton is partially open. Seeding of wheat and thrashing of soybeans is gaining momentum. A few workers have been placed at elevators and gins. No great demand for hand pickers is anticipated. The Cotton Classing Office at Hayti, Missouri, has classed 500 bales of cotton as of today. Last year at this time they had classed 25,000 bales.

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street - Telephone: EDgewater 5-6666.

Harvest work continues with labor supply and demand in balance for local office area. No demand as yet for cotton pickers. Apple harvest almost completed. No surplus labor available for out-of-area employment.

Labor Mobility Office, Poplar Bluff, 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9606

The following is the present status of several applicants identified in the Mobility Project population: 1 applicant awaiting RAA; 9 applicants awaiting interview; 14 applicants awaiting job development; 2 applicants awaiting interview travel funds; 28 applicants available for relocation.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street - Telephone: Tuxedo 8-3184

Sunshine and dry ground has started the harvest of early soybeans in volume. Prices at rail points run from $2.45 to $2.50. Most farmers are putting beans in Government Loan. The cotton harvest is picking up some, but is still far behind normal. Receiving numerous orders for harvest workers such as Combine Operators and Gin Operators.

Some year-round placements are being made. Recruiting for Mobility "Hire Day" is being done for the "Hire Day" being held on November 1 and 2 at Columbia.

GIRL SCOUT leaders started back to school as a Design for Learning program got underway. Mrs. Paul Fisher, standing, is director of piloting, and Mrs. Joe Dye, seated next to Mrs. Fisher, is assistant director. Participants, from left, are Mrs. Billy Lewis, Mrs. John Cowell, Mrs. Clifford LaPlant, all of Sikeston, Mrs. Robert White of East Prairie, Mrs. Hal Robertson, Mrs. Bob Hinton, Mrs. J. L. Howle, Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, all of Sikeston, Mrs. Paul Schurenberg of Gray Ridge, Mrs. S.H. Trapani and Mrs. Jerry Dyer, both of Sikeston.

No Sign for I-55 Entrance At Canalou

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Cape Girardeau and area motorists traveling to St. Louis on the Missouri side of the river will find the exit route to Interstate Highway 55 at Pevly unmarked and without directions will miss it.

Although the new section of highway has now been open for two weeks, the state highway department has placed no direction markers on highway 55 to show travelers how to reach the new stretch of interstate road a short distance to the west at Barhart, the next turnoff to reach I-55, to show travelers how to get on the interstate route and off the dangerous curves and hills of highway 61.

Most motorists who have been going to St. Louis in the past two weeks prefer using highway 61 rather than the long-used Illinois routing. The opening of I-55 south as far as Pevly makes it possible to reach St. Louis as quickly now as by way of Illinois routing.

Highlights and Sidelights

PASSENGER TRAINS ON DECLINE IN STATE
JEFFERSON CITY — Passenger rail service is vanishing in Missouri — and the pattern is being repeated throughout the country with the exception of a few metropolitan areas.

Some observers in the state have even predicted that there will be no passenger trains operating in the state in five years — or at the least, none offering local services.

The Missouri Public Service Commission last week heard arguments from citizens and city officials opposing petitions by the Missouri Pacific and the Norfolk and Western railroads to close down more of their passenger trains.

MoPac is seeking to drop two local passenger trains from St. Louis to Kansas City, both of which run through Jefferson City. Norfolk and Western is asking to discontinue one of its passenger trains which runs a northern route from St. Louis to Kansas City.

But in the face of local protests, a spokesman for the Missouri Pacific Railroad cited losses of $163,593 in 1966 in support of its request.

E. Earl Spencer, passenger traffic manager, testifying on the deficits, said the two MoPac trains, Nos. 14 and 17, already are $86,014 in the red through the first eight months this year, and that the removal of a U.S. Mail car this week would cost the railroad an additional $118,000 a year.

Spencer said an increase in automobile travel, particularly since the completion of Interstate 70 between the two cities, and air and bus transportation are responsible for steadily declining passenger train patronage.

The action by the Post Office Department is being repeated throughout the nation. In an effort to economize and to provide faster mail service, first-class mail is being taken off of railroads and transferred to busses, trucks and even airlines.

As a result, more railroads are petitioning the Public Service Commission to reduce their passenger services — and most are granted their requests.

But even if the PSC refuses to grant such a "discontinuance," the railroads still have the means to terminate passenger service.

Under a 1958 statute passed by Congress, a state public service commission has only 120 days in which to act on a petition for a discontinuance. If no action is taken within that time, the railroad may submit its request to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D.C., where the approval generally will be given.

And if the PSC does act, but denies the request, the railroad still may seek ICC action and get a completely new hearing in Washington.

This means that the hearings which the PSC is conducting on the MoPac and Norfolk and Western petitions will have little bearing in the long run on whether they are allowed to reduce their passenger services.

The federal law was passed at a time when state public service commissions were more reluctant to grant discontinuances and railroads were beginning to lose large sums of money from their passenger operations.

Its effect is indicated by the fact that in 1959, one year after its passage, five railroads discontinued nine passenger trains, and in 1960, seven railroads stopped passenger service for a total of 11 trains.

Also in 1958, 12 railroad companies were maintaining passenger services in Missouri. Today, four have discontinued all passenger service, three have greatly reduced services to only a few connections (generally on the borders of the state), and five are operating small local routes.

SPECULATION RISES ON TOLL ROAD LOCATIONS
Citizens throughout the state are speculating with increased interest over possible toll road routes now that the governor's bill, passed by the last General Assembly, is officially in effect.

The bill went into effect Oct. 13 — 90 days after the end of the regular legislative session. A part of Gov. Warren Hearnes' legislative program last session, it establishes a Turnpike Authority which includes the governor and the six members of the State Highway Commission.

The constitutionality of a provision of the bill may be challenged in a test case soon, that part which provides unlimited drawing rights on state highway funds for the construction of toll roads.

But this possibility is not slowing down efforts to plan future roads, and preparations already have been made by citizens concerning possible routes from Kansas City south, Kansas City toward Chicago, St. Louis to Springfield, and Kansas City to Cape Girardeau.

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY

Cotton harvest in Southeast Missouri starting on limited scales bolls are opening slowly. Local labor sufficient.

Soybean harvest, fall plowing and wheat sowing are primary farming activities over most of the state.

Twenty year-round and 91 seasonal farm placements reported last week.

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway - Telephone: 471-2731

Harvesting of cotton, soybeans and corn underway. Sowing of wheat acreage completed. Labor supply and demand in balance, with a few inquires by small family groups only, asking about citrus harvest in Florida.

Farm Labor Information Station and Rest Camp, Route #2, Sikeston

The Camp served 1,236 migrants last week. 24 were going to Oklahoma and 1,212 were returning to their homes in Texas.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9606

Bean harvest continues to progress smoothly. Good average per acre reported. Cotton harvest will get underway October 16, with local help standing by, mostly on-farm labor. Some schools have dismissed for cotton harvest in lower Butler County. They are expected to be out for three weeks.

Caruthersville: 300 Ward Street - Telephone: Edison 3-2416

Cotton harvest continues to move slowly. A few machines are being used but not extensively as most of the cotton is partially open. Seeding of wheat and thrashing of soybeans is gaining momentum. A few workers have been placed at elevators and gins. No great demand for hand pickers is anticipated. The Cotton Classing Office at Hayti, Missouri, has classed 500 bales of cotton as of today. Last year at this time they had classed 25,000 bales.

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street - Telephone: EDgewater 5-6666

Harvest work continues with labor supply and demand in balance for local office area. No demand as yet for cotton pickers. Apple harvest almost completed. No surplus labor available for out-of-area employment.

Labor Mobility Office, Poplar Bluff, 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9606

The following is the present status of several applicants identified in the Mobility Project population: 1 applicant awaiting RAA; 9 applicants awaiting interview; 14 applicants awaiting job development; 2 applicants awaiting interview travel funds; 28 applicants available for relocation.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street - Telephone: Tuxedo 8-3184

Sunshine and dry ground has started the harvest of early soybeans in volume. Prices at rail points run from $2.45 to $2.50. Most farmers are putting beans in Government Loan. The cotton harvest is picking up some, but is still far behind normal. Receiving numerous orders for harvest workers as Combine Operators and Gin Operators.

Some year-round placements are being made. Recruiting for Mobility "Hire Day" is being done for the "Hire Day" being held on November 1 and 2 at Columbia.

GIRL SCOUT leaders started back to school as a Design for Learning program got underway. Mrs. Paul Fisher, standing, is director of piloting, and Mrs. Joe Dye, seated next to Mrs. Fisher, is assistant director. TWO MILES south of Mounds Interstate 57 goes over route 51, center right, after bridging the Illinois Central Railroad spur, upper right, which is tied in with the highway overpass with an earth fill. This elevated four-lane divided section extends from the route 51 crossing 1,100 feet southward over low lying ground to join another earth fill which will tie-in with the Cache river bridge one mile south. The west, or southbound section, has all the bridge beams in place and some of the decking completed on the south end, left center. Beams on the northbound section of piers have not been positioned. Both sections are expected to be completed in 1968. - Cairo Evening Citizen Photo.

Jack Powell Bound Over in Arson Case

NEW MADRID -- One man was charged in four counts and suspended his driver licenses other man on one in the five for a year.

A charge of careless and reckless driving brought a fine of $50.00 against Jack Del-wright in sessions during the week. The judge also heard 27 misdemeanor cases accord- ing to Mrs. Lorene Thompson, clerk of the court, who said the he assessed fines in them.

Excessive speed charges Jack Powell is charged in four counts with arson and he was ordered bound over to trial in the circuit court under bonds of $5,000 each when he waived pre-liminary hearings before Judge and Jerome Lavon Cannon, and Wright. Charges against Powell $15.00 against Dewey D. Thomp-son.

Three were fined $15.00 each for permitting unauthorized persons to operate motor vehicles, they being Ronnie K. Beardsley, Frank Coffee, and John W. Pipkins.

Commercial Transport was fined $27.50 for having an excess of 650 pounds, and Murlin Banto paid $15.00 for operating an overwidth truck.

Having no operator licenses brought fines of $15.00 each against Henry G. Coffee, Dolph Wilson and Robert C. Rosten and Jo Ann Guin, and a like charge, together with one of having defective brakes, cost Alene Jimmerson $16.00.

An improper registration count caused a fine of $15.00 against Frank Bonds and the same amount was paid by Dennis Wayne Davidson for being an unlicensed operator.

Roy Van Owens was fined $35.00 for having no license on a truck.

On a common assault charge to which he entered a plea of guilty, Bobby Clayton was fined $25.00 by the judge.

Rally Behind County Health Center Proposal

BLOOMFIELD - About 125 Stoddard countians rallied here behind a proposal in which the county could hold a special election without cost on the health center question.

The Rev. Robert McCoy, head of the Stoddard county health council, proposed the county judges reconsider the special election now that the estimated $3,800 cost is now longer a factor.

The Rev. Mr. McCoy said the council will supply election workers at no cost throughout the county for election day.

Judges reportedly rejected an election proposal because of expense to the county. They instead want to wait until the general election in 1968.

However, the council contends the question is more urgent and a county health center is badly needed.

Those attending also heard Paul Hutchings, head of Bollinger County's health center, speak on advantages of a countywide health program. Poplar Bluff health center officials also talked with the group.

This was the second effort of

168 Films Available

NEW MADRID -- Church and civic organizations in New Madrid county will have access to 168 select sound film titles in 1968 as a result of the county library's membership in the Missouri Libraries Film Co-operative.

Films are received in packages of 14 film per month and are available for showing upon advance request from organizations. The library will lend film and equipment for showing films if the requesting organization has a person who is experienced in operating film equipment. Or, the library will send a staff member to show the film to the organization.

Jack Powell Bound Over in Arson Case

NEW MADRID -- One man was charged in four counts and another man on one in the five felony cases on the docket in a charge of careless and reckless driving brought a fine of $50.00 against Jack Del-week. The judge also heard 27 misdemeanor cases according to Mrs. Lorene Thompson, clerk of the court, who said she assessed fines in them.

Jack Powell is charged in four counts with arson and he was ordered bound over to trial in the circuit court under bonds of $5,000 each when he waived preliminary hearings before Judge Wright. Charges against Powell arose over the burning of three unoccupied farm residences and a barn near Sikeston in New Madrid County.

Ordered held for trial in the higher court on a charge of assault with intent to rape was Edward Sloan. The judge set his bond at $1500.00 when he waived a Magistrate Court hearing on the charge.

Willie Conner Mays entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and the judge assessed a fine of $120.00. Mays was also sentenced to a six months term in the county jail and committed to the institution and his operator license was suspended for a year.

In three other cases in which the charges were operation of motor vehicles while intoxicated, the judge assessed fines of $120.00 each. Charged and entering pleas of guilty were Eugene Earl Cantrell, William P. Walker, and Odie Anderson. In each case the judge sentenced the defendant to six months in the county jail and granted probation and suspended the defendant to six months in the county

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH MORE AT WOOLWORTH'S

By THORA QADDUMI
Eugene (Ore) Register-Guard Women's Editor

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Monday — every Monday — is moving day for Mrs. Robert McCarrall wife of Jehovah's Witness circuit minister.

The McCarralls, and other 300 circuit ministers and their wives in the United States, have no home in the traditional sense — just a post office box in New York and arrangements with friends in the regions they are serving to accept and forward mail.

Moving every week from city to city in their circuits — the McCarralls visit 18 cities in Oregon — the ministers stay either in trailer houses or in homes of other Jehovah's Witnesses.

"It's probably about half and half," said Mrs. McCarrall. "We have a 30-foot trailer house. The congregations in the cities we visit make arrangements and pay charges for parking it."

Like other circuit ministers and wives, the McCarralls receive no payment for their service and have no paid jobs. They eat most of their meals in the homes of other members.

"All Jehovah's Witnesses feel their career is the ministry," Mrs. McCarrall explained. The Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, organization of Jehovah's Witnesses, has no paid clergy. Men whose Biblical knowledge, health and financial and family situations qualify them to be circuit ministers may be assigned this role.

"It's the idea of the 'widow's mite,'" Mrs. McCarrall explained. "We each do what we can depending on our circumstances."

Some young men become circuit ministers and continue in this service throughout their lives, even though this means they and their wives will not be able to have children, as it will be too difficult to continue the rigorous traveling schedule.

Other Jehovah's Witnesses, like the McCarralls, are assigned after their children are grown. Mrs. McCarrall's husband, a circuit minister seven years, did not assume the position until they had raised their son, who is now 30 years old.

Mrs. McCarrall is a third-generation Jehovah's Witness; her husband, a name is Jehovah (Jehovah's Witnesses).

Her husband gives four talks at the congregation's Kingdom Hall (meeting house) each week. "In accordance with scriptural instructions that a woman is not to teach in the congregation," Mrs. McCarrall gives no talks at the public gatherings.

The formal training course for circuit ministers is not extensive, as it is implicit in the faith of Jehovah's Witnesses that all members gain Biblical knowledge through congregational and home study. Mrs. McCarrall noted, however, there is a training course for newly appointed ministers at Watch Tower headquarters in New York and two-week refresher courses are given every two years.

What about retirement? "There's no retirement for a Christian, is there?" Mrs. McCarrall smiles. "Jesus tells us to 'Consider first the kingdom of Heaven,' and we take him at his word."

In addition, Mrs. McCarrall noted, "We feel that very soon this wicked system (present-day) is going to end." Meanwhile, the circuit minister's wife doesn't mind the transient life her husband's role necessitates.

"We feel it's a great privilege and we wouldn't want to be doing anything else. It's the one thing in this world we want to be doing — and I speak for all Jehovah's Witnesses in saying this," she states.

And material goods — kept to a minimum in the trailer — are insignificant in Mrs. McCarrall's view. "After all, you can wear only one dress at a time."

Every Monday Moving Day

By THORA QADDUMI
Eugene (Ore) Register-Guard Women's Editor

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Monday — every Monday — is moving day for Mrs. Robert McCarroll wife of Jehovah's Witness circuit minister.

The McCarrolls, and other 300 circuit ministers and their wives in the United States, have no home in the traditional sense — just a post office box in New York and arrangements with friends in the regions they are serving to accept and forward mail.

Moving every week from city to city in their circuits — the McCarrolls visit 18 cities in Oregon — the ministers stay either in trailer houses or in homes of other Jehovah's Witnesses. "It's probably about half and half," said Mrs. McCarroll. "We have a 30-foot trailer house. The congregations in the cities we visit make arrangements and pay charges for parking it."

Like other circuit ministers and wives, the McCarrolls receive no payment for their service and have no paid jobs. They eat most of their meals in the homes of other members. "All Jehovah's Witnesses feel their career is the ministry," Mrs. McCarroll explained. The Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, organization of Jehovah's Witnesses, has no paid clergy. Men whose Biblical knowledge, health and financial and family situations qualify them to be circuit ministers may be assigned this role.

"It's the idea of the 'widow's mite,'" Mrs. McCarroll explained. "We each do what we can depending on our circumstances." Some young men become circuit ministers and continue in this service throughout their lives, even though this means they and their wives will not be able to have children, as it will be too difficult to continue the rigorous traveling schedule. Other Jehovah's Witnesses, like the McCarrolls, are assigned after their children are grown. Mrs. McCarroll's husband, a circuit minister seven years, did not assume the position until they had raised their son, who is now 30 years old.

Mrs. McCarroll is a third-generation Jehovah's Witness; her husband, a name is Jehovah (Jehovah's Witnesses).

Her husband gives four talks at the congregation's Kingdom Hall (meeting house) each week. "In accordance with scriptural instructions that a woman is not to teach in the congregation," Mrs. McCarroll gives no talks at the public gatherings.

The formal training course for circuit ministers is not extensive, as it is implicit in the faith of Jehovah's Witnesses that all members gain Biblical knowledge through congregational and home study. Mrs. McCarroll noted, however, there is a training course for newly appointed ministers at Watch Tower headquarters in New York and two-week refresher courses are given every two years.

What about retirement? "There's no retirement for a Christian, is there?" Mrs. McCarroll smiles. "Jesus tells us to 'Consider first the kingdom of Heaven,' and we take him at his word."

In addition, Mrs. McCarroll noted, "We feel that very soon this wicked system (present-day) is going to end." Meanwhile, the circuit minister's wife doesn't mind the transient life her husband's role necessitates.

"We feel it's a great privilege and we wouldn't want to be doing anything else. It's the one thing in this world we want to be doing — and I speak for all Jehovah's Witnesses in saying this," she states.

And material goods — kept to a minimum in the trailer — are insignificant in Mrs. McCarroll's view. "After all, you can wear only one dress at a time."

SOMEONE CARED

A shirt that has not been mended and patched — perhaps the first he has owned in his life — is a sign to this old man in a Calcutta home for the aged that someone cares about his plight.

India is just one of 80 countries where poverty-stricken people receive clothing, shoes and bedding donated by Americans during the annual Catholic Bishops' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign.

All clothing received will be distributed throughout the year to the world's needy, regardless of race or creed. Leave a bundle of serviceable used garments at the nearest Catholic church during November.

If You Were the Judge Cowardly Father Can't Be Denied Children

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sadie had a great lust for life and spent her life lusting for it. The result? Her husband George finally tossed in the sponge and had their marriage ended. What's more, he received custody of their two children. Indignant and determined to regain possession of her children, Sadie started a custody proceeding with no holds barred.

"George is no more fit to raise our children than a Yellow Bellied Sapsucker," she told the Judge. "He's a complete coward. During World War II, he intentionally avoided meeting the enemy by going in the opposite direction."

"With bombs blazing in the air," was George's answer, "I didn't look to see if the flag was still there. I looked to see if I was still there. And, when I found I was, I got out fast. Any red-blooded young American boy might have done the same thing under the circumstances. Particularly, if he was scared like I was."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you deprive cowardly George of his children?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while being "dauntless in war" is an estimable virtue, a father may not be deprived of his children because he may have been a coward in war. (Based upon a 1955 New York Supreme Court Decision)

The club also has a word of caution for the parents:

"Be certain the child wears something white, even if it is only a large handkerchief tied on his arm. Many costumes are black and almost impossible for the motorist to see at night."

"Remember that Halloween is for the children," says the Auto Club, "and it is up to both the

Looking Back 12 Go on Picnic on Little River

50 Years Ago
October 23, 1917

Quite an enjoyable day was spent Sunday by the following persons, on a picnic at Little River: Messrs. and Misses. Mark Dorroh, Joe Hobbs, Will Fisher and daughter, Mrs. Ada Lennox, Misses Ora Lennox, Myrtle Shepard, Mae Allard, Virginia Matthews and Francine Black, Chas. Matthews, III, and Lynn Matthews.

Mrs. Wm. Malone and sons left Sunday afternoon for Ft. Sil, Okla., where she will join her husband, who is stationed at that place. Albert Malone accompanied them.

Miss Ivah Davenport left Monday for Talala, Okla., where she will visit her brother, Jesse Davenport and family. From there she will go to Yuma, Ariz., where she will make her future motorist and the parent to do everything possible to see that children come home safely with their brimming bags."

Host Guilty If Drunk Guests Have Accident

Dear Ann Landers: What is the responsibility of a host and hostess to guests who drink too much and then drive home?

It is not possible to monitor the alcoholic intake of guests to make sure they don't get plowed. Furthermore, it is next to impossible to get a drunk to admit he is in no shape to drive. I have seen drunks become belligerent and nasty when someone questions their ability to handle the wheel.

My husband and I had a party at our home recently and the last four couples to leave were so stoned they couldn't see straight. When they left (in two cars) I told my husband I was scared to death that they would end up in the morgue. He said, "They'll be O.K. Don't worry."

It so happened they made it all right, but if they had NOT made it, how much of the guilt would have been on our heads? Please tell us, Ann Landers, what is the solution to this ever-growing problem? -- A PARTY TO THE MURDER?

Dear Party: If those drunks had NOT made it home, or worse yet, if they had rammed into some innocent people, you would in my opinion, be guilty of plenty.

One thing a host and hostess can do to prevent such tragedies is to cut the liquor off and send people home BEFORE they get so cockeyed they are a menace to society. Don't tell me it can't be done because I have done it in my home and I will continue to do it -- and anyone who doesn't like my brand of hospitality doesn't have to come back.

Guests who become suddenly drunk should be driven home by a sober guest, or sent home in a taxi. Anyone who knowingly allows a drunk to drive himself anywhere must share in the blame for whatever happens.

Dear Ann Landers: I used to hate it when you handed out advice against going steady. I thought you were a square old bag and I even wrote once to blast you. Well, I am writing again -- this time to apologize.

I am a 15-year-old girl who just broke up with a boy 17. We started to go steady last January. I was in heaven for about five weeks, and then I began to worry because we seemed to go a little further every time we got together. One day I asked what he would do if I got pregnant. He said, "Any girl who is dumb enough to get pregnant in this day and age deserves to figure a way out by herself."

That statement really shook me up. I told him he was absolutely right and I wasn't going to wait until I got into that fix because we were parting company then and there.

That was three months ago and I've never been so happy in my life. What a rockhead I was to think I needed a steady for social security. I have plenty of dates and I'm having a ball. My mother and I get along better, too. We used to argue a lot because she didn't approve of my going steady either.

I'd like to tell all teen-agers who think going steady is boss that they are kidding themselves. -- BEEN THERE.

Dear Been: Thanks for another testimonial. Your lesson was relatively inexpensive. Most of the teen-agers who write as you did had to pay a high price for their education.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism - Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers Host Guilty If Drunk Guests Have Accident

Richard Hayes
Seven Years Old

Dear Ann Landers: What is the responsibility of a host and hostess to guests who drink too much and then drive home?

It is not possible to monitor the alcoholic intake of guests to make sure they don't get ployed. Furthermore, it is next to impossible to get a drunk to admit he is in no shape to drive. I have seen drunks become belligerent and nasty when someone questions their ability to handle the wheel.

My husband and I had a party at our home recently and the last four couples to leave were so stoned they couldn't see straight. When they left (in two cars) I told my husband I was scared to death that they would end up in the morgue. He said, "They'll be O.K. Don't worry."

It so happened they made it all right, but if they had NOT made it, how much of the guilt would have been on our heads? Please tell us, Ann Landers, what is the solution to this ever-growing

Looking Back 12 Go on Picnic on Little River

50 Years Ago
October 23, 1917

Quite an enjoyable day was spent Sunday by the following persons, on a picnic at Little River: Messrs. and Misses. Mark Dorroh, Joe Hobbs, Will Fisher and daughter, Mrs. Ada Lennox, Misses Ora Lennox, Myrtle Shepard, Mae Allard, Virginia Matthews and Francise Black, Chas. Matthews, III, and Lynn Matthews.

Mrs. Wm. Malone and sons left Sunday afternoon for Ft. Sill, Okla., where she will join her husband, who is stationed at that place. Albert Malone accompanied them.

Miss Ivah Davenport left Monday for Talala, Okla., where she will visit her brother, Jesse Davenport and family. From there she will go to Yuma, Ariz., where she will make her future home and visit her brother, John.

The community was shocked to hear that C. D. Matthews, Sr., was dead, the end having come Wednesday afternoon. With his death passes one of the most remarkable men in the history of Missouri.

40 Years Ago

Ned Tanner was called to St. Louis Sunday night and at noon Monday, phoned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Tanner, that his wife had presented him with a daughter.

Matthews - Mrs. W. O. Carroll and Mrs. Chas. Lumsden entertained Saturday afternoon with a progressive rook party given in honor of Mrs. Carroll's sister, Mrs. Francis, of Fredericktown, who is visiting here. Monday night is Halloween so you had best put everything away or nail it down, cause the rough social problem? -- A PARTY TO THE MURDER?

Dear Party: If those drunks had NOT made it home, or worse yet, if they had rammed into some innocent people, you would in my opinion, be guilty of plenty.

One thing a host and hostess can do to prevent such tragedies is to cut the liquor off and send people home BEFORE they get so rookeyed they are a menace to society. Don't tell me it can't be done because I have done it in my home and I will continue to do it -- and anyone who doesn't like my brand of hospitality doesn't have to come back.

Guests who become suddenly drunk should be driven home by a sober guest, or sent home in a taxi. Anyone who knowingly allows a drunk to drive himself anywhere must share in the blame for whatever happens.

Dear Ann Landers: I used to hate it when you handed out advice against going steady. I thought you were a square old bag and I even wrote once to blast you. Well, I am writing again -- this time to apologize. I am a 15-year-old girl who just broke up with a boy 17. We started to go steady last January. I was in heaven for about five weeks, and then I began to worry because we seemed to go a little further every time we got together. One day I asked what he would do if I got pregnant. He said, "Any girl who is dumb enough to get pregnant in this day and age deserves to figure a way out by herself."

That statement really shook me up. I told him he was absolutely right and I wasn't going to wait until I got into that fix because we were parting company then and there.

That was three months ago and I've never been so happy in my life. What a rockhead I was to think I needed a steady for social security. I have plenty of dates and I'm having a ball. My mother and I get along better, too. We used to argue a lot because she didn't approve of my going steady either.

I'd like to tell all teen-agers who think going steady is boss that they are kidding themselves. -- BEEN THERE.

Dear Been: Thanks for another testimonial. Your lesson was relatively inexpensive. Most of the teen-agers who write as you did had to pay a high price for their education.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism - Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A n Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Study to shew theyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. (II Timothy 2:15)

PRAYER: Dear Father in Heaven, we are grateful for Thy many blessings. Forgive us for our many foolish ways. Make us sensitive to opportunities that are ours and help us to seek Thy guidance in making right choices. In Jesus' name we pray, as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Today In U.S. History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 23, the 296th day of 1967. There are 69 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1917, American troops saw their first action on the Western front in World War I.

On this date:

In 1684, the Charter of the Massachusetts Colony was annulled.

In 1776, Gen. George Washington's troops with drew from the Island of Manhattan.

In 1915, some 25,000 women demanding voting rights demonstrated in New York.

In 1929, stock prices started dropping in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

In 1942, British troops under Gen. Bernard Montgomery launched a big offensive against Axis forces at El Alamein, Egypt, during World War II.

In 1947, a forest fire destroyed much of the resort town of Bar Harbor, Maine.

Ten years ago-Syria rejected Saudi Arabia's offer to mediate a dispute between Syria and Turkey.

Five years ago-The Organization of American States voted unanimously to support a U.S. quarantine of Cuba.

One year ago-President Lyndon B. Johnson and the leaders of nations involved in Vietnam began a conference in Manila.

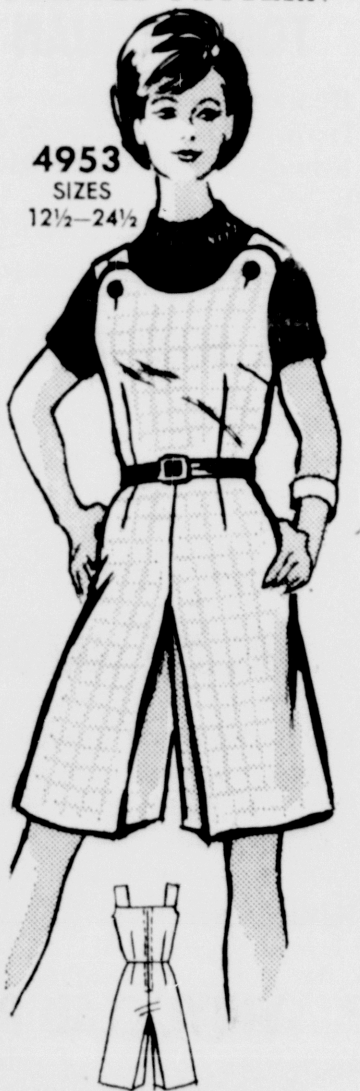

"I thought it was the radio playing the top 40!"

Dexter Woman, 90, Reads without Specs

DEXTER -- Mrs. Rebecca Peck a young child and has spent her entire life in the Malden-Dexter area.

During this year, she has already read the Bible through four times, a daughter said. She is a member of the First General Baptist church, but health does not permit her to attend services very often.

Ninety years has brought about some vast changes in the American Mrs. Peck knows. It has gone from the horse and buggy days to the space age and from president Rutherford B. Hayes to Lyndon B. Johnson - with 14 other presidents in between.

Ralph Copsy

Ralph Copsy, Musician, Dies at 60

Ralph Copsy, 60, 109 Stoddard street, orchestra leader and musician 38 years, died Saturday at 12:30 a.m. in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. He had been in ill health nine years.

He was born in Danville, Ill., Feb. 5, 1907, son of Walter and Maude Albertson Copsy. He married Dell Fordman of Milwaukee, Oct. 1943.

He began a musical career at 16 as a trombonist.

As a youth he joined Barnum and Bailey circus bands. Later he joined the Red Nicholas, Frankie Masters and Eddie Howard orchestras, as a featured trombone player in radio and ballrooms engagements. He organized his own band in Milwaukee, where he remained until 1948.

He gave up a musical career in 1948 to enter studio photography in Champaign, Ill., where he remained until 1954, following the death of his father. The family moved to Matthews, where he farmed. He moved to Sikeston nine years ago.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, David Copsy, a student at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, and Craig Copsy of Sikeston.

Services were today at 2 p.m. in the Jackson Funeral Home with the Rev. B. G. Corn officiating.

The body will be taken Tuesday morning for burial at 1 p.m. in the Forest Lawn cemetery in Champaign.

Jones Asks Support for Scouting

DEXTER -- The needs of Boy Scouting and in the future as the Scouting program is expanded in the Southeast Missouri area, were explained to a large group of business and professional men at a dinner meeting at the Hickory House.

If Scouting is to grow and expand in keeping with the long-range plan adopted by the council, then additional funds will be necessary to finance this program for more and more boys, the businessmen were told.

Yewell Lawrence presided at the meeting and Congressman Paul C. Jones was the chief speaker. Jones urged the audience to support the scouting program fully, and declared that this was one investment that is sure to pay rich dividends, as facilities are provided for more and more boys, and more youths are introduced to the Scouting program.

The Congressman also reminded about his days in Scouting, back, he said, "before the Boy Scouts of America were chartered by the Congress of the United States".

It is the responsibility of individuals, the Congressman said, to support such programs, not only with their money, but with their service in any way possible.

Joe Welborn of Bloomfield, long a leader in the scouting program in Southeast Missouri, spoke briefly on the long-range plan for the Southeast Missouri Council.

Mike Watkins, a Boy Scout, was also on the program, telling the men how their funds and support have helped him and other Scouts to enjoy the worthwhile experiences of Scouting. Yewell Lawrence, Jr., another Scout, gave the invocation.

The first department of space science in an American college has been established at Rice University in Houston, Tex.

R.C. Davis Services Today

CHARLESTON -- Services for R. C. Davis, 78, retired cotton ginner, who died Saturday morning in the Cairo hospital, were held today at 2 p.m. in the Methodist church, with the Rev. J.W. House, officiating.

Burial was in the Odd Fellows cemetery with the Nunnelee Funeral Home in charge.

Survivors include one half-sister, Mrs. Earl Laycock, Fredericktown; nine grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Golden eagles can see eight times better than man. A mature bird can spot a rabbit half a mile away. The eagle's sight is telescopic, microscopic, monocular and binocular.
